Name: _____   Date: _____

Dreamweaver 8 Introduction - Multiple Choice

Instructions: Circle the correct response.

1.   A(n) _____ is a group of computers and associated devices that are connected by communications facilities.

     a.   client

     b.   server

     c.   network

     d.   ISP

2.   A(n) _____ is a software program that requests a Web page, interprets the code, and displays the contents of the Web page.

     a.   Web site

     b.   home page

     c.   Web browser

     d.   ISP

3.   Which of the following Internet Explorer bars will display the URL of the Web page that you are viewing?

     a.   URL

     b.   Address

     c.   Application

     d.   Title

4.   Internet Explorer's _____ bar contains buttons, boxes, and menus that allow you to perform tasks quickly.

    a.   Standard Buttons

    b.   Menu

    c.   Title

    d.   Address

5. A(n) _____ typically provides information about a Web site's purpose and content.

    a. OSP

    b. index page

    c. navigation page

    d. hierarchical page

6. Which of the following Web site uses a regularly updated journal format to reflect the interests, opinions, and personality of the author, and sometimes visitors?

    a. Journal

    b. News

    c. Informational

    d. Blog

7. A(n) _____ Web site contains factual information, such as research and statistics.

    a. News

    b. Educational

    c. Informational

    d. Government

8. _____ transmits multiple signals simultaneously and includes hardware

   such as T1 lines and cable modems.

   a. Multimedia

   b. Broadband

   c. Baseband

   d. Blogs

9. A(n) _____ consists of all the characters available in a particular style and weight for a specific design.

   a. font

   b. template

   c. partition

   d. typography

10. Some XHTML elements can contain a(n) _____ which is additional information placed within the angel brackets.

    a. content

    b. header

    c. blog

    d. attribute