When capped, freeze them to kill mites and replace for the bees to clean out.

This vaporizer also features "side" wings that serve to keep the vaporizer from overturning in the hive.

PROVAP 110 OXALIC ACID VAPORIZER

#PVOV $485.00 ship weight: 22 lbs

Finally, a FAST Sideliner/Commercial Vaporizer at a reasonable price! We're talking 20 seconds per hive! No wand to insert, just point and shoot! No guessing on dosage! No compressor or battery! This vaporizer is strictly for use in a grounded 110 volt (3 prong) socket.

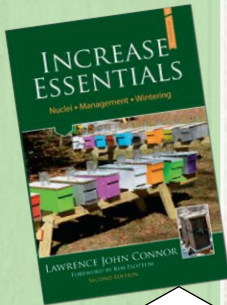

The Seasons of Beekeeping

Early Spring

- Evaluate overwintered colonies and provide emergency nutrition if stores are low. This is a critical month for many beekeepers in northern states! Don't lose your colonies to starvation!
- Make a spring game plan for overwintered colonies. Do some reading on splits, re-queening, and queen-rearing.
- Prepare the location for your new packages, nucs, or splits. Make sure hive stands and equipment are assembled and painted!

Supplements Available on Page 41

Books Available on Page 76

Wooden Nuc Available on Page 50

Hive Stand Available on Page 35

Late Spring

- Install new packages!
- Split overwintered colonies for apiary growth and to truncate swarming behavior.
- Give new packages, nucs, & splits the best start of the season and prepare sugar syrup with Honey B Healthy.
- Assess brood patterns and evaluate queens for queen rearing.
- Add boxes to new and overwintered colonies to prevent over-crowding and swarming
- Set up swarm lures and traps to capture swarms.
- Start monitoring your mite loads with the Easy Check Mite Counter.

Pest Control Available on Page 42

Swarm Lures Available on Page 50

Nuc Boxes Available on Page 50

Early Summer

- Continue to add supers as needed.
- If you have a vigorous, overwintered queen with traits that you would like to propagate in your apiary, then try your hand at queen-rearing.
- Don't forget to order honey containers and labels!
- Prepare summer splits so that strong nucs can build up for winter.
- Continue to monitor your mite loads with Easy Check Mite Counter.
- Commit to a varroa control program (MAQS, Formic Pro, or oxalic acid) and purchase your treatment so you have it on hand when conditions are appropriate for use.
- Begin working on honey labels. Check local and state agencies for current labeling laws.

Glass Jars Available on Page 5

Labels Available on Page 14

Pest Control Available on Page 42

Late Summer

- Pull honey supers when they are at least 75% capped.
- If you feel that pollen stores are low and you're not seeing foragers bringing it in the hive, consider feeding a pollen substitute.
- Critical varroa treatment time. Last chance to treat with MAQS.
- Re-queen colonies as needed.
- Super your hives for the fall honey flow!
- Keep checking mite levels with Easy Check Mite Counter.
- Prepare for your last honey harvest of the year.

Feed Supplies Available on Page 41

Extractors Available on Page 61

Fall

- Consider feeding Megabee as you see the flow slow down if pollen stores are low.
- Evaluate honey stores in colonies and feed accordingly with 2:1 sugar syrup with Honey B Healthy.
- Purchase Winter Hive Wraps.
- If you didn't treat for mites yet, Oxalic Acid works well in broodless colonies. Try the ProVap 110 Vaporizer.
- Install mouse guards and provide upper entrances for ventilation and exit during deep snow conditions.
- Continue to feed if weather allows.

Vaporizers Available on Page 43

Mouse Guards Available on Page 43

Winter

- Install hive wraps once freezing cold really sets in.
- Feed winter patties as needed.
- Consider packing honey in attractive jars like our 3 oz. skep or 4 oz. muth as gifts for friends and family.
- Consider another Oxalic treatment later in winter as you see fit.
- Do something with your wax. Try your hand at candle making with our Lyson Candle Molds.
- Build your library! Read up on skills and practices that you would like to incorporate in your beekeeping.

Queen Rearing

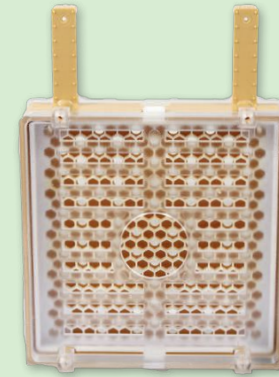

JENTER QUEEN SYSTEM

The easiest and best way to begin rearing the queens you always wanted. It eliminates grafting and guesswork. A breeder queen is trapped in the plastic cell box placed in a frame and lays in plugs, which are removed and placed in a cup and plug holder to hang from your cell bar frame. Parts are reusable. You will need to purchase frames with cell bars and protector cages separately.

Very efficient for mating a few queens in the backyard or remote apiary. Includes nuc, excluder, 3 frames and top.

PUSH IN INTRO CAGE

#260P $5.00 EACH ship weight: 1 lb
The best, most successful way to introduce a queen is with a push-in cage. Fill the tunnel with queen candy. Push the cage into a frame in the center of the brood nest with open cells and emerging brood, no adult bees. Release the queen and the attendant workers into the large 5.75" x 5.125" cage. As the queen starts to lay eggs, she will give off queen pheromone, which will ensure acceptance. Putting the cage over the soon to emerge brood ensures you can release her or you can manually do so after she has started laying. Reduce to 9 frames to give the bees more room to crawl on the cage. Also useful for isolating the queen to prepare for grafting.

You insert the comb box into a frame and 110 brown cell starter cups are fitted into the back of it. Next you confine the queen in the front of the cage and she immediately lays eggs in the 110 available cells. She can be released the next day. On the 4th day each newly hatched larvae is ready for transfer. You remove each cell starter cup and insert it into a cell cup holder. You then slide this unit onto a cell bar holder which is attached to a cell bar. To finish the cells you now put the cell bar into a cell building colony. Our complete kit comes with a comb box, 110 brown cell cups, 10 cell cup holders, 10 cell fixtures. All pieces are reusable except the cell cups.

Uncappers

LEGA SLICER #LGTT-UC Starting at $995.00 ships freight

This simple and ingenious system makes this slicer truly revolutionary! Thanks to its reduced price, mechanical uncapping is now available to both small and serious sideline beekeepers. Its main advantages include the following:
NO electric power needed, NO sharp blades, NO heating required, extremely fast operation, NO hand fatigue - slice open cells in seconds; not minutes! The capped cells are broken open by the simultaneous action of circular cutting blades on both the sides of the comb at the same time. The comb is manually pushed through the blade holding shafts by acting on the handle bar. The sliced frame then automatically falls onto a support track and is ready for loading into the extractor. Finally, you will be able to uncap as fast (or faster) than it takes to extract!

LEGA 15 FRAME EXTRACTOR & UNCAPPING COMBO

#LG515CBO Starting at $2240.00
ships freight

This combo unit brings together the two most important pieces of equipment in honey processing: a bench-type uncapping bench and an electric honey extractor. The powerful, yet extremely quiet BETA motor is mounted below the honey extractor. In addition to being very compact (50" x 22" x 36"), this great unit has the following characteristics:

Bench-type uncapping machine on the left side of the unit, fitted with crosspiece on which to rest the frame. A stainless steel rack for receiving uncapping frames waiting for later honey extraction. A removable deep tank with a perforated bottom for cappings collection and dripping.

Honey extractor on the right side of the unit, fitted with a stainless steel 5/15 cage. This cage extracts 10 each of 6-1/4" or 5-3/8" frames so easily. With the unique stainless cage, you can also extract five 9-1/8" frames tangentially. Safety lid lock makes this the perfect extractor to use with the family.

Each of the two compartments is fitted with a transparent hinged lid. The tank has four sturdy support feet sized to ensure a slight inclination of the machine toward the discharge gate. This helps the honey flow out of the extractor and the uncapping machine.

Further, get every last drop of honey without the hassle in tipping and waste, like other units on the market. On extracting day — imagine a whisper quiet—nearly silent, bottom mounted gamma motor driving the basket. This unit has a precision laser-cut and machine-balanced heavy-duty stainless steel basket cage for perfect operation. The reversible motor and controller is simple to operate via the worry-free gamma console. The lid has a lock-out mechanism that keeps the lid safely closed. Two year warranty. 30 FRAME LYSON

#L30FE Starting at $1598.95* ships freight

The Lyson 218 is a 30 frame, motorized, radial stainless steel honey extractor for the serious beekeeper. This mid-level extractor has full length steel legs for improved rigidity and an easy to use digital controller for the 1/2 HP DC motor. The drum is constructed of 24 gauge stainless steel with a conical base to facilitate honey drainage. Honey is drained through a welded stainless steel 1 1/4" valve with O-ring seal. The clear acrylic cover lets you observe honey extraction easily without having to open the extractor. This machine has several safety and economically friendly features. The braking system is engaged when the STOP button is pushed, the Emergency button is pushed or if the cover is lifted (interlock not shown in picture) which is very useful when little ones are helping with the extraction! The 1/2 HP DC motor allows for precise configuration of acceleration and speed. The motor is only supplied with as much power as it needs. It will also automatically shut down after 15 minutes of inactivity. A great energy saver!

Motor Specifications: A variable speed DC motor is powered by an adjustable controller with digital indication of motor speed. Speed is adjusted up and down through a keypad. The motor speed is controlled by pulse width modulation (PWM), which switches power on an off as needed instead of dissipating (i.e. wasting) power through a rheostat or resistor. The result is very efficient, low power extractor operation with excellent control. The extractor comes with a standard 120V grounded power cord. The Lyson 218-30M can hold 30 deep (9 1/8"), medium (6 1/4") or shallow frames (5 3/8"). Comes with a 2 year warranty. Dimensions: 32" Diameter x 39" Tall

40 FRAME LYSON MINI LINE

#CMLEL Starting at $925.00* ships freight: call

The professional quality extractor holds 40 frames and is quickly loaded using the manual frame cart. Loading each rack of 20 frames also pushes out the extracted frames onto the discharge rack. While the machine is running, the extracted frames can be put back into supers and new frames are uncapped and placed into the loading rack. Loading/unloading time is minimized to increase total throughput. This compact setup is ideal for the busy sideliner or small commercial beekeeper.

The HE-03 controller is the top-of-the-line motor controller offered by Lyson. The fully programmable controller with color LCD includes eight programs for automatic control of the extractor speed throughout the extraction cycle. The programs consist of seven steps each with an adjustable start time and extractor speed. Honey drains through a stainless steel valve into the included insulated sump. The sump includes a float switch to activate a honey pump. A honey pump (item LYHPW2021GNF) is included for transferring honey to your tanks.

Wax Presses

Cappings fall into the funnel and are pushed forward by the screw. Steadily increasing the pressure causes the honey to flow through the holes in the sleeve to the honey collector, which flows to your sump tank/filtration system. The wax is transported to the end of the spindle, where once dried it is collected in a bin for easy processing without honey waste. Increase your efficiency, processing time and get more saleable honey from your cappings!

All Bee World wax presses are fitted with inverter to use in 110/240 V environment.

LYSON

#W20966 LYSON CAPPING EXTRUDER Starting at $4495.00 ships freight

The slow-rotating screw, made of durable high density plastic, compresses the cappings while allowing the liquid honey to escape through the perforated cylinder.

Partially dried wax exits the end of the screw and is ready for further processing, or if needed, a second pass through the extruder (in the case the excessively wet cappings or raw comb). Honey drips into removable sieve trays and then into a holding tank for discharge to your tank. The dryness of extruded wax depends on the honey content of the cappings. In some cases, two passes may be required to remove sufficient honey from the wax. The extruder may also be used in the food industry as a fruit press. Caster wheels are included for easy movement of the unit.

LEGA HONEY WARMING CABINET

#LG-HWC Starting at $1199.00* ships freight

Honey liquefier cabinet with insulated walls for crystallized honey. Beekeepers are expected to always supply liquid-state honey. This electrically heated cabinet enables you to keep honey consistently liquefied.

It can contain either two, 5-gallon pails or approximately 72 - 2 pound jars. Slowly heated by forced circulation hot air produced by thermostatically controlled resistance heaters causing crystallized honey to liquefy. The cabinet is made from stainless steel and has a glazed see-through door with magnetic lock. Inside the cabinet, honey in two lb jars returns to its liquid state in around four to six hours without any damage to the labels on the jars. The cabinet has a sleek, compact, vertical design and user-friendly, intuitive display and controls.

Creamed Honey

HOW TO MAKE CREAMED HONEY

Patented by Elton J. Dyce in 1935, raw honey is first pasteurized to kill any yeasts that may be present in the honey. A seed batch of previously creamed honey is added to cooled pasteurized honey to produce a mixture of 10% creamed honey and 90% pasteurized honey. The mixture is allowed to rest at a controlled temperature of 57°F. This method will produce a batch of creamed honey in about a week.

Introducing the Honey Creamer. In Europe, creamed honey is the norm. Spreadable, scoopable, and generally a lot less messy than liquid honey, creamed honey is popular among those who like honey on toast, muffins or apples. Once a seed is added, this machine churns the honey on a programmed schedule (without adding air) to distribute and develop a tiny crystal resulting in an ultra-smooth consistency. 230V, 400mm, 36 RPM.
